

RACE, IDENTITY, & BELONGING IN THE NORDIC COUNTRIES

WITH ELIZABETH LÖWE HUNTER, JASMINE KELEKAY, SUSANI MAHADURA & ETHELENE WHITMIRE

CHAT TRANSCRIPT

13:02:47 From Caleb: Yay, Elizabeth! <3

13:03:12 From Rashad: Go Elizabeth! <3

13:05:53 From Christian: Wooo go ethelene!!!!

13:17:39 From Humphrey: How do you respond to racism in a context that racism is denied or in a context that racism is subtle or implicit?

13:20:16 From Cuthbert: There was a hate crime murder in Denmark on Bornholm in 2020 where 2 young Danish brothers killed a young man with a Tanzanian mother and Danish father. One of the brothers had swastika and "White power" tatoos. But the Danish police would not call it a hate crime. The brothers were convicted. Have other Nordic countries had these hate crimes?

13:21:16 From Evelyn: Afternoon! I just have a happy comment. I'm a mixed race, Black American and I love that Jasmine points out that if your social research projects and publications are not backed by huge media companies, people try to invalidate them! Especially if it is about something like racism, minorities, etc.

13:22:45 From John: When I grew up, prejudicial behaviour couldn't even be discussed. It was always discarded as fantasy, or being too sensitive. I believe that Swedish Racism is color-blind.. In the sense that parochialism only cares if you are from "this village". IE even French, german, or in my case, greeks are all seen and treated with severe prejudices. What do you think?

13:23:22 From Stephen: BLM was a protest in CPH, nothing has changed in Denmark.

13:24:28 From Stephen: I'm a black man from London, my parents are Jamaican and have lived in London for over 60 years. I have been living in Copenhagen since 1997 and institutional racism has been on the rise over the last 15 years. I have travelled extensively in the Nordics between 2005 and 2010.

13:24:41 From Faith: Hello, dear Jasmine, Elizabeth and Ethelene! Always lovely to see your beautiful faces and hear your voices. Really good to hear about your work. ☐

13:24:54 From Tracy: What parallels do you see when comparing the experience of racism in the Nordic countries (which are perceived to be more homogenous) and the US (which, ostensibly, is perceived to be more heterogenous and a "melting pot")?

13:25:36 From David: I would like to bring two topics, first intersectionality, what are the circumstances of women of color or trans* people of color in Scandinavia. Is there a need for a different way of addressing this topic. I am thinking for example about the mortality rate of trans* people of color in the US.

13:25:39 From Nina: A question for the panel: What if any impact have official policies of assimilation aimed primarily at immigrants meant for racial identity and movements in the Nordic countries?

13:26:30 From Claudia: How would you define racism ? And what forms take racism in the Nordic countries? Thanks to the panelists for having this very interesting discussion

13:27:52 From David: The second question is about the relation between story, history and "race" as an ideological construct and its relation to a national imaginary that has I think something to do with the ideological glue that the concept vikings is, and the appropriation and missuses of viking symbols by white supremacist or metal band music.

13:28:19 From Faith: True invisibility.

13:28:51 From Monica: During the massive gatherings around BLM there were ppl commenting on the missing visibility of black ppl whose lives might not have been seen (the Mediterranean Sea and Lampedusa). Do you think that the big visibility of BLM was more about the trending of US events and not about the increased awareness? in the nordic context

13:28:57 From Saida: in Finland the category is foreign born and born in Finland

13:29:05 From Helene: Regarding this issue - are you also engage in the development of race science in the Nordic countries? I worked with the Finnish artist Minna Henriksson that mapped the race science in Sweden, Norway and Finland 1845-1945, and Hanni Kamali, the norweigen artist also working with race science. Can the history of race Science also be one of several keys in the discussion?

13:29:09 From Cuthbert: There was a hate crime murder in Denmark on Bornholm in 2020 where 2 young Danish brothers killed a young man with a Tanzanian mother and Danish father. One of the brothers had swastika and "White power" tattoos. But the Danish police would not call it a hate crime. The brothers were convicted. Have other Nordic countries had these hate crimes?

13:29:55 From Naomi: Such a good point about racelessness! It's frustrating trying to explain your experiences because it's "inappropriate" to talk about race, even if it's your lived reality

13:30:34 From Monica: During the massive gatherings around BLM there were ppl commenting on the missing visibility of black ppl whose lives might not have been seen (the Mediterranean Sea and Lampedusa). Do you think that the big visibility of BLM was more about the trending of US events and not about the increased awareness?

13:31:24 From David Carrillo-Rangel : I have been told many times as a researcher when talking about whiteness and white supremacy in Scandinavia and in Europe, to go to America, like if this was not a problem here. Race is indeed a term we don't use, but more to the point, is not verbalize, like if the issues that happen in the US does not happen here.

13:31:31 From Paola: Yay Elizabeth!

13:31:35 From Stephen: <https://jyllands-posten.dk/debat/tegning/ECE12601146/dagens-tegning-en-kroelle/?fbclid=IwAR2fuwE9MEHSCAv8WMx6xX TEWBJ4q3xkk twarXNTiVwXkHfoWR3FfZFhk>

13:31:42 From Monica : * in the Nordic context

13:32:44 From Yonas: I am so happy to see all of you talk about race issues and proud as a black African man in a Nordic Country. I have personal experiences where on the phone, HR people love what i have for experience and education. As soon as they see my photo on linkedin and see I dont have a "Swedish" last name, they just never mind answering after. Even with a master degree from Sweden, I see people with only Highschool diploma get jobs I am rejected for. For me the problem is that in Sweden, people think there is no racism. What can we really do to pressure companies to make diversity an issue and a measurement of Success? and how can we, black people of the Nordics come together and advocate for our rights like our family in the US? Just because Nyamko Sabuni is a party leader, we have a few black celebrities, doesnt mean it is not a problem.

13:33:16 From Maria: @Helene in cultural anthropology the concept of race is not the same as the scientific/biological concept of race, created during the 19th century and used by eugenicists

13:33:24 From Ka: Thank you for having this panel. I resonate so much of what you are all saying. Im a journalist in Oslo, Norway and it has been difficult to cover topics of racism. I established my own online publication, The Oslo Desk, and it has been difficult to bring awareness of these issues, and have it taken serious. And I am not a native Norwegian. I'm a British-born Hong Konger. One of the problem is the the lack of research on racial inequality. Or if there is, its so narrow and gets twisted by the big media in Norway.

13:33:24 From Krista: What are your thoughts about Viking symbols, like the Valknut and Odin's Ravens and runes being used by white supremacist groups, most recently - seen on the rioters in the US capitol building? There is currently a small but growing movement in the US that wants to distance themselves from these groups, and are using the phrase "Vikings Against Racism"

13:33:27 From Kyla: Is this being recorded?

13:33:32 From Britte: Hi! My name is Britte in Portland, Oregon and I'm writing a non-fiction book about the "troll diaspora" from Nordic countries to North America. I have come across many examples in troll folklore where a Scandinavian character refers to a troll character by the name of "Finn" which I have come to understand means "The Other." I'm wondering, in terms of race and language, to what extent have white Finnish people been racialized by white Scandinavians (DK, SD, NW) as ethnically "other"? How does this impact white Finnish people's perceptions of "otherness" in non-white ethnicities living in Finland? (Broad question.).

13:34:08 From Anaïs: For those who have not watched it, the Culture Arts Society's panel on « Antiblackness in the Nordics » was really illuminating last August:

13:34:10 From Anaïs: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=snbxjj7ThA0>

13:34:19 From John: I was born and raised in Sweden, by Greek parents. I eventually gave up trying to fit in, and gain traction and recognition. I moved to Ireland 13 years ago.

13:35:03 From Helene: The name of the book? again please

13:35:03 From Sine: Thank you for this brilliant panel. Two questions: 1) What does multiracial/multiethnic coalition-building/solidarity work look like where each of the panelists are? 2) Regarding intersectionality, can you speak to the experiences of women of color and LGBTQ communities of color in Nordic countries as well?

13:35:18 From Liselott: What is the book you just showed? where can one buy it?

13:35:52 From Jaana: Great panel and such a timely discussion. Will the recording be available later? I would like to post it on Finland Center Foundation's social media.

13:35:52 From Michael: In Denmark, the term hygge racism is often discussed and debated. By attaching racism to a term like hygge, do you feel, in ways, it normalizes racism as an acceptable socio-cultural practice?

13:36:08 From Line: I think it was called "NO JUSTICE NO PEACE"

13:36:29 From Gunika: I'd love to know (if and) how spatially your respective cities are segregated in terms of race and how it helps in identity building and feeling belonged?

13:36:45 From Saida: <https://www.instagram.com/nojusticenopeace.helsinki/?igshid=yplpog117j6r>

13:36:47 From Maya: Thank you for this conversation and making this space. Is there somewhere where it is possible to buy the publication you read from Susani? I recently started a BIPOC zine library with my friend, based in Copenhagen, and would love to include the publication as part of our library/archive

13:37:09 From Serian: Great panel. How do we continue this conversation to spaces such as teacher training programs, medical personnel, police, etc?

13:37:14 From Dean: For those here who read Norwegian (nynorsk), you might be interested in this book by Camara Joof (scroll down) <https://www.camarajoof.com/>. There is also a good video she directed on this website.

13:37:28 From Dean: *by

13:38:09 From Maeva: Hello, Thank you for this discussion - so important and much needed. Many Nordic Noir (Nordic crime fiction) novels include racism and the aspect of "othering" anyone who doesn't "look" Nordic "enough" (sigh...), trying to start a conversation perhaps since the 1990s especially. However, there are still few Nordic Noir authors who are POC.

Do you think there should be more proactive actions from governments in these countries to also make POCs enter the cultural scene to have the discussion? What would you suggest as "best practices", best ways to do it?

13:38:27 From Christian: i love the conversation about black lives matter in scandinavia, what can the US learn from scandinavian countries and vice versa in terms of race, racism, community building, recognition and similar topics

13:38:33 From Neil: Great panel - would like to share recording with my students if possible!

13:39:02 From Birgit: Same!

13:39:53 From Digital debattfestival: #3 - Grønn matpolitikk: hey, I'm from Congo but my parents are from Congo. I'm just wondering if you have heard of the racist issues in Norway?

13:40:11 From karen: You all are absolutely amazing! This discussion is desperately needed BY people of color. I applaud you all!

13:40:13 From Evelyn: Can you recommend any good books about Racism in the Nordics?

13:40:33 From Ted: Tobias Hübinette, Catrin Lundstr

13:40:41 From John: The high degree of conformist attitudes in Scandinavian countries is crushing individuality..

13:40:49 From Laura: just some weeks ago a good anthology came out

13:41:03 From Ted: @Evelyn: Tobias Hübinette, Catrin Lundström, Paulina de los Reyes, Diana Mulinari, Felicia Mulinari.

13:41:16 From Britte: @Maeva I'm recently getting into Nordic Noir TV and film with my film club, where do you see this othering happen in popular TV and film in this genre? I'm looking for a couple examples to share with my film club members for our next discussion.

13:41:35 From Monica: Ylva Habel, Lena Sawyer in the Swedish context.

13:42:31 From Analía: Thank you for organizing such a great panel. I would also like to share the recording, please!

13:43:11 From Anaïs: Here's a podcast episode where Awa Konaté talks about anti-Blackness and Nordic exceptionalism: <https://thefunambulist.net/podcast/awa-konate-anti-blackness-and-nordic-exceptionalism>

13:43:36 From Tess: Mira Skadegård, Lene Myong, Temi Odumosu, Iram Khawaja, Armani Hassani, Nina Cramer, Emil Elg and myself, Tess Thorsen, Among Danish scholars doing work on race.

13:43:49 From Tess: Amani*

13:43:51 From John: Is the code of silence still that strong in Scandinavia?

13:43:57 From Yonas: The ball is in their court! 🏀

13:44:19 From Amina: Such an important point. The lack of visibility and connectivity is something that needs to be addressed and remedied

13:44:26 From Britta H: @Evelyn: Lovette Jallow - Främling i vita rum, Mångkulturellt centrum - Afrofobi

13:44:47 From sophia: Thank you all for speaking English on this panel, for those of us who do not speak Finnish, Danish, Swedish, etc. - aware of the politics of translation and English language hegemony & feeling grateful. I'm curious about "whitenesses" - whiteness in Scandinavian contexts versus U.S. contexts

13:45:13 From Elizabeth: There are fantastic resources and references here in the chat - will the chat text be available to the attendees after the session? Thank you.

13:46:25 From Ursula: Nana Osei-Kofi at Oregon State University does really interesting work too

13:46:28 From Helene: "Blond and Blue Eyed - Witness, Swedishness and Visual Culture" Jeff Werner

13:46:36 From Denise: @Britte check out 'The Truth Will Out'. A Nordic Tv series that has both an American Black character and a Norwegian Black character.

13:46:38 From Laura: Suvi Keskinen, Pauline Stoltz and Diana Mulinari

13:46:38 From Maeva: Re: Nordic Noir.

Well it's a theme in many books but I'm not sure about films/series unfortunately. I'm more into the written aspect. But all the Wallander novels have a strong running theme about this, for instance, and I've seen it somehow in the films. But it's always white authors trying to start a conversation from a left-wing perspective, with mostly the usual themes that actually don't help, maintain the prejudices, etc...

13:47:00 From Anaïs: See also the work of Anders Neergaard for Sweden and Temi Odumosu <https://medium.com/the-politics-practices-and-poetics-of-openness/open-images-or-open-wounds-colonial-past-and-present-in-the-city-of-copenhagen-66d901f5f4e1>

13:47:06 From Freida: Hello everyone—Ethelene, Elizabeth, Susani, Jasmine. Thank you all for sharing your thoughts on this radicalized history. Your discussion of racelessness and related issues in regard to race and gender in Nordic countries is so critical. Do you have a link to further discuss such issues? Does the Black Lives Matter book—"No Justice, No Peace" include the work of artists? Who is the publisher of the book? It would be wonderful to have greater communication with Black women and Black artists in your countries. With much gratitude.

13:47:17 From Birgit: Fantastic panel!!!

13:47:25 From Nina: Hi! Here from Iceland thank you so much for this. Recommend the books of Kristín Loftsdóttir on racism in the Nordic and the work of Kristinn Schram on Borealism

13:47:29 From Evelyn: @Ted Thank you! I want to visit the Nordics but I'm aware of racism as a mixed race Black American. I'm hoping it is not as violent in the Nordics as it is here in America

13:48:18 From Denise: 'Occupied' is a Norwegian TV series that has a Black female character who plays an important role in the story.

13:48:21 From Monica: Michael McEachrane, AfroNordic Landscapes: Equality and Race in Northern Europe (Routledge, 2014)

13:48:26 From Camilla: Another author Lovette Jallow, her book is in Swedish: Främling i vita rum (freely translated: Stranger in White Rooms)

13:48:37 From Rashad: Thank you all for this panel! So much brilliance and nuance here! <3

13:49:15 From Britte: Thank you Denise and Maeva!

13:49:18 From Maeva: Right, Occupied is good! And the role they gave her is very complex and definitely not the "usual" one in other similar shows/books. =)

13:49:24 From Maria : @Evelyn it's very different. ofc it's a very racist country, but more institutionalized. i'm brazilian and black, I lived in Denmark for a while and tbh I've suffered more violent experiences here in América - especially in the USA

13:49:58 From Tanja: In Norway assimilation is banned, but it hasn't been renewed or updated since 1979, and it is only aimed to the Sami and Roma People. It gives a small protection, but not much. It hasn't been up for any debate.

13:50:08 From Maeva: Honestly the fact that I can't come up easily with TV shows and films related to Nordic Noir genre featuring POCs in main roles says a huge damn lot... even Borgen failed miserably.

13:50:09 From Bruna: Thank you all for this wonderful panel! I'm a Black Brazilian woman and here we face a different kind of colorblind discourse. It is interesting to compare different versions of it.

13:50:12 From Karen: I'm curious about your perspectives of the US. What, if anything, is the US doing to positively address racism?

13:50:21 From Ted: @Sophia obviously there's a discussion around roma and sapmi, but on whiteness and the geopolitics of the Nordics there are some Baltic scholars who are trying to show that the Baltic states view themselves as Nordic (Baltic literally translates to "the Whites"). This isn't really discussed a lot because of the internal west/east divide in terms of "Europé".

13:50:34 From Maeva: (I know Borgen isn't Nordic Noir technically but well... whatever.)

13:51:15 From Anna: Someone asked about publications about racism in the Nordics:

- Rastas, Anna (2019) The emergence of race as a social category in Northern Europe. In Essed, Philomena, Karen Farquharson, Kathryn Pillay and Elisa Joy White (eds) Relating Worlds of Racism: Dehumanization, Belonging and the Normativity of European Whiteness. Cham: Palgrave Macmillan, 357–381.
- Loftsdottir, Kristin and Lars Jensen (eds) Whiteness and Postcolonialism in the Nordic Countries: Exceptionalism, migrant others and national identities. Burlington, VT: Ashgate
- McEachrane, Michael (ed.) Afro-Nordic Landscapes: Equality and Race in Northern Europe. London and New York: Routledge,

13:51:16 From Evelyn: @Maria e-Hug for you! Stay powerful, Queen! I'm looking at Iceland and Norway. I've heard Denmark and Finland are working on things (and this talk just confirmed it)

13:51:17 From Robert: Thanks for this panel. The BLM demo in Denmark was impressive and we'll supported but it seems the movement was not prepared for the conversation itself over and above the demonstration itself. Is this a fair assessment?

13:51:22 From Nicola: A quicker read (and I acknowledge I am the editor of this website!). See also links to other shorter articles: <https://nordics.info/show/artikel/racism/>

13:51:35 From Joaquin: @Evelyn You can travel without any fear. Nordic countries are safe and welcoming. They are talking about institutional racism, assimilation and integration... Hopefully you won't have any disturbing experience of that sort. If that happens is very rare and random

13:52:01 From Camilla: Another author Lovette Jallow, her book is in Sorry! This was first just seen by panelists, now also to all attendees: Another author Lovette Jallow, book is in Swedish: Främling i vita rum (freely translated: Stranger in White Rooms) Highly recommend if you understand Swedish.

13:52:04 From Ted: There's a great MA thesis from Linköping University about anti-asian racism in Sweden by Mavis Hooi.

13:52:23 From Ursula: One of my favorite published texts on this topic is the essay collection "Complying with Colonialism" (Suvi Keskinen is among the editors).

13:53:09 From Jaana: @Jasmine having lived in the US for a long time I'm not sure if this is still going on, but Finland and Sweden at least in the past organized instruction in the home language for immigrant children, which strengthens their ties to their parents' community while educating them in the mainstream - something the US doesn't do

13:53:44 From Ted: There's also a really good Finnish documentary about a Somali-Finnish trans woman, it's called Kelet.

13:55:04 From Tess: this is such a wonderful panel - thank you so much for organizing it! I'm very sorry to have to leave! such important work!

13:55:06 From Maeva: Thank you everyone for sharing all these resources. This discussion is so great. I'll definitely send the link to my students.

13:55:08 From Maria : @Elevyn thank you, dear! you too. I have an Icelandic friend who tells me that racism is worse there than in Denmark. we met at the University of Copenhagen

13:55:16 From Anaïs: Mavis Hooi's dissertation « Neither victim nor fetish: 'Asian' women and the effects of radicalization in the Swedish context » is freely downloadable here <http://liu.diva-portal.org/smash/record.jsf?pid=diva2%3A1323159&dswid=-7782>

13:56:03 From Maria: btw, thank you for the recommendations, I'll definitely read them and also watch the documentary

13:56:11 From Angela: This discussion has been excellent. Thank you very much from Toulouse, France

13:56:17 From Karen: Thank you so much to/for this panel! ^_^

13:58:54 From Evelyn: @Maria Now that I know the Nordics has this problem as well. I think I'm going to take a camera with me and interview everyone who is not afraid to talk about this, and collect their views on this.

13:59:49 From Raneem: can we follow you somewhere on social media if you use it publicly and spread awareness through it? I would love to follow you guys on social media.

13:59:50 From Nina : A really fantastic discussion. So grateful to the presenters for sharing your knowledge and insights, and also to the American Scandinavian Foundation for organizing and convening.

14:00:09 From Lea: Really fantastic discussion, thank you for your time

14:00:38 From Samantha: This has been a fantastic panel. Thank you, everyone!

14:00:49 From Yonas: no multi-lingualism unless its another European Language.

14:01:03 From Jaana: The language requirements could perhaps be on multiple levels depending on your profession. As a physician, communication with my patients is super important; it's less important if you write research papers in English!

14:01:19 From Mavis: Thank u so much Susani. The point abt givin space for more people of color to have positions with power and make dicisions that can make all of us grow on the higher level.

14:01:29 From Freida: One thing that bothers me about such discussions is that many questions by the audience are never answered, largely because of the selection of questions and the limitation of time. Please post the questions and, also, please answer the questions so that all participants can read them. Thank you very much for your followup on this very informative panel.

14:01:58 From Ursula: Thank you so much for this wonderful panel!

14:02:11 From Kristen : Thank you all so much! You are all beautiful rockstars!

14:02:17 From Fidelma: Thank you panelists for your courage and conviction to advance racial justice in your regions. Brava Ethelene for convening a powerful panel of women leaders! :-) Thanks ASF.

14:02:21 From Amber: Thank you all so much for the great discussion!

14:02:33 From Stephen: Thank you 🙏

14:02:46 From Rashad: Period!!!!!!!

14:02:53 From Mimmie: Thank you so much <3!

14:02:53 From Monica: Thank you all— nice to see you Elizabeth and Jasmine. I'm excited about your work!

14:03:12 From Cecilia: Thank you for bringing the problem with English language into the discussion Elizabeth!

14:03:56 From Evelyn: Thank you for this Panel! I think I'm going to get the Scandinavian House membership now, because they did not have to sponsor this. I know this topic freaks people out 🤔

14:03:58 From Saida: At Good Hair Day (@ghdhelsinki) we are trying to work on this matter of language and terminology. Our events are both in Finland and in English due to requests.

14:03:59 From Bruce : Great discussion. Thank you!

14:04:08 From Rashad: Mic drop!

14:04:17 From Sukhanwar: Thank you everyone for the great discussion

14:04:17 From Birgit: Thank you so much!

14:04:17 From Caroline: thank you for an amazing panel!

14:04:18 From Maeva: Thank you so much!!

14:04:18 From Amanda : Thank you so much for this panel!!!

14:04:19 From Ellen: Fantastic discussion! Thank you so much!

14:04:21 From Olivia: Thank you all! Sp

14:04:22 From Tia: Thank you all!!

14:04:23 From Olivia: o

14:04:24 From Jennifer: Thank you SO much !

14:04:26 From sophia: Thank you all so much for your brilliance and generosity!

14:04:28 From Maria: Fabulous discussion!

14:04:29 From Sara : Thank you all so much!!

14:04:31 From Angela: thank you everyone!

14:04:31 From Bridgette: Thank you all so much!

14:04:31 From Phyllis: Queens! Thank you for this 🙏

14:04:31 From Karen: Thank you!

14:04:34 From Liselott: Thank you.

14:04:34 From Maeva: Kiitos & tack!

14:04:36 From Safia: Than you very much

14:04:37 From Frances: amazing. thank you all so very much.

14:04:39 From Michaela : Thank you for a wonderful event, it is so refreshing to see this conversation taking place in the nordic region.

14:04:44 From Olivia: *sp grateful for your insight and kon

14:04:44 From Courtney: Exceptional panel. Thanks so much everyone for sharing these invaluable resources via chat. Gratitude.

14:04:46 From alyce: thank you so much an amazing and thought-provoking panel!

14:04:46 From Monica: Thank you- grateful for this conversation!

14:04:46 From Yasmin: Thank you everyone!

14:04:48 From Lisa: Tusen takk!!

14:04:51 From Olivia: *knowledgre

14:04:51 From Faith: Terrific job, as usual! We had another interesting discussion last year in Lisbon at the biannual AfroEuropean Conference, which is another space.

14:04:53 From Georgios: Thank you=)

14:04:55 From Marita: Kiitos! Tack! Tak! Thank you!

14:04:56 From Camilla: Thank you - tack!

14:04:57 From Susana: Thank you all for this!

14:04:57 From Soffi: Amazing panel talk! Thank you for making this event <3

14:04:58 From asia: Thank you

14:04:58 From Anne: Tack så mycket!

14:04:59 From Pernille : Thank so much for this super interesting panel. Amazing work you are all doing! Tak!

14:05:00 From Tiina: Wonderful! Many many thanks <3

14:05:00 From Analía: Thank you! Kiitos!

14:05:03 From Libe: Thank you 🙏💜 from Trondheim!!!

14:05:04 From Saida: Thank you for this panel and the important conversations.

14:05:06 From Gabriella: Thank you !

14:05:07 From Danielle: Thank you!! Tack

14:05:07 From Maria: Thank you, everyone!

14:05:09 From Natalie: great panel. thanks!

14:05:10 From Cheyenne: Tusind tank allesammen! This was a really wonderful and intriguing conversation.

14:05:13 From Deborah: Very insightful panel. Very poignant discussion. Thank you for sharing!!

14:05:14 From Kelly: This was great! Thank you, tack!

14:05:15 From Eveliina: Thank you for this panel!

14:05:15 From Anna-Kajsa: Thank you so much, this is so important. Tack, kiitos!

14:05:15 From Kata: Thank you so much for this incredible panel!

14:05:16 From Jasmin: thank you all! loved it!

14:05:17 From Lilja: Thank you so much for the valuable discussions.

14:05:18 From Raneem: Thank you so much! 🙏❤️ Thanks to all!

14:05:19 From Simone: Thank you for this panel!
